Of the extravaganza an exchange says: Evangeline differs from other extravaganzas in the great mills in the country. Ladies', gentlemen's variety of its characters. Whilst the "Lone and children's merino undershirts, vests, Fisherman" is really the star and performer, Fisherman' is really the star and performer, he is such an unpretentious being that "Gabriel," "Evangeline," "Le Blane" or three or four others making so much more noise, could as well claim the title. The variety of the performance grows mainly out of the characters themselves, and no foreign business is interjected, as in the Humpty Dumpty class of extravaganza. The performance last about three nours without a dull return that ance last about three hours without a dull

The election for representative held on resterday to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. T. C. Lowe, was conducted in a very quiet manner, no opposition to Colonel George R. Phelan having appeared A few scattering votes were cast in several wards by way of a joke, and not by way of opposition to Colonel Phelan. The result, which we append below, shows that Colonel Phelan received in the city 1199 votes out of 1243—the entire vote cast. In the sixth ward no polls were opened, nor were the polls opened at Big Springs, the precinct in the fifth civil district outside the city limits. Up to twelve o'clock last night no returns were received from any of the civil districts of the county, except the one above mentioned. It is not probable that these returns will come in before to-morrow. The vote in the country districts will be light, and it is ru-mored that in many of them no polls were COUDEN-Your letter of th rd instant at hand, and through sympathy for the afflicted and gratitude to you I comply with your request with great pleasure. In February, 1869, I was operated on with a knife for a cancerous tumor measuring three inches in diameter, of then six years standing, by Dr. Rogers, of Louisville, which re lieved me for a few months, but in less the a year it returned worse than before. I sufered with it until August, 1870, when I com menced treatment under you, and in a fe ealed in a short time. Since then I hav it has been seven years since the operation, and your worth and honor as a gentleman. From these facts I can freely recommend you to the afflicted. Since then I have been married, and my husband joins me with many good wishes for your future welfare. Any one desiring further information I will take pleasure in giving it. 1 remain your sincere friend, MRS. LIZZIE WHEELER MRS, LIZZIE WHEELER.

Integrity and Business Honor Brings

Some three or four years since a young man of energy and integrity commenced business he promised that a job should be done by certain date, there was no disappointment, hi word was better than any bond. His faithful compliance with all promises brought its re ward, and this day he is the proprietor of two prominent houses in this city—the stove and tinware estable hments of Nos. 214 Main and lines of goods unsurpassed by any others on city. Mr. Ford is now prepared to fill a
